WHAT'S NEW IN SHAREPOINT 2013 (IA EDITION)

回

What is information architecture?

- The structural design of shared information environments.
- The combination of organization, labeling, search, and navigation systems within web sites and intranets.
- The art and science of shaping information products and experiences to support usability and findability.

What is information architecture?

4 basic IA concepts

- Information
- Structuring, organizing, and labeling
- Finding and managing
- Art and science

IA Breakdown

Business goals, funding, politics, culture, technology, resources and constraints

Context

Audience, tasks, needs, information seeking behavior, experience

Document / data types, content objects, volume, existing structure

Content

Users

Context

 All web sites and intranets exist within a particular business or organizational context

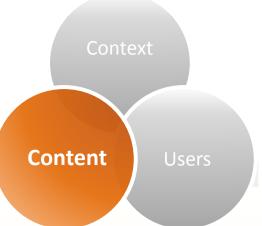

- Each organization has a mission, goals, strategy, staff, processes and procedures, physical and technology infrastructure, budget, and culture
- the key to success is understanding and alignment

Content

- Includes documents, applications, services, schema, and metadata that people need to use or find on your site
  - How much content do you have?
  - What are the formats your content is in?
  - Who owns your content?

Users

- Every user has different experiences and abilities to draw from
- Every user has different needs and wants
- Do you know how your users use your site now?

WHAT MAKES AN IA STRATEGY REALLY WORK

(763) 450-3850

How users look for information

The too-easy information seeking model

Why doesn't this model work?

- Most users don't know what their looking for
- Most users don't know how to search
- Most users don't have the patience for complicated systems

BREAKING SHAREPOINT IA DOWN

6 (763) 201-6040

Above the Line Enterprise Portal

- Many consumer, few contributors
- Examples: Company communications, employee relations, sales & marketing, human resources
- IA rules
  - Content tends to be highly controlled & published via established processes
  - Content is published via a 'push' method
  - Ability to interact is 'locked down'
  - Information is well defined and frequently accessed
  - Access to SharePoint publishing support feature set

Above the Line Enterprise Collaboration

- Many contributors, mature processes
- Examples: Help desk, Job request, Process tracking, Document Management system
- IA rules
  - Processes have been refined and well documented
  - User interaction is well defined and tested
  - Contributors are well trained
  - Access to the full SharePoint feature set

Below the Line Projects & Workspaces

- Many contributors, no control
- Examples: Team sites, Temporary projects, Departmental sharing
- IA rules
  - Tightly governed and 'locked down'
  - Contributor can do what they want, but have limited abilities
  - Support is minimal
  - Does not participate in Enterprise processes (i.e. global search, managed metadata practices, retention policies)
  - Access to limited SharePoint feature set

Below the Line My Sites

- No central administrative control
  - Every 'My Site' owner is a site collection administrator
- Social / Organizational interactions
- Personal storage
